Prosecutor Pursues EMK, Is Rebuked

At this writing the Senate has agreed to a six-months extension of the surtax, House concurrence is assured, and the measure should reach the White House next week.

Your editor opposed the original enactment under President Johnson, thinking it would merely lead that free-wheeling administration into still wilder spending—but as you recall, conservative Democrats of both houses finally tied it to a mandatory cut in the budget, and with that sensible restriction the surtax became a law.

Republicans went along with the Democratic majority under a Democratic President. But when the shoe was on the other foot, a Republican being in the White House, the Senate couldn't help practicing some low-level politics, holding up the surtax extension decision until the 11th hour.

I note that Sen. McClellan voted for the extension, but Sen. Fulbright opposed it to the end. I value both of them as statesmen, but candor compels me to say that as long as Fulbright supports liberal spending bills he should go along with the business of levying taxes to pay for them.

The surtax is unpopular, of course. Spending is popular, but paying bills never is—Yet the United States pushed unlimited federal spending so far that we had to enact the surtax in order to convince European bankers we weren't about to devalue the dollar.

I will never forget that a group of tourists attempting to return from London by air were shocked to discover in the middle of a currency exchange crisis that their American dollars would not be accepted for tickets because at the moment no one knew the exchange rate on the dollar.

I know of no other such instance in modern American history. It was a close call, shocking all America.

It made us realize no nation lives alone. We run our government, true, but if we run it recklessly enough we wake up to find that American citizens and their dollars are suspect the moment they step out of their own country.

We've a long road to travel to regain world confidence in the dollar—and the surtax is a step in that direction.

I regret Arkansas' junior senator was so unwise as to let himself be caught playing picaresque partisan politics when the good name of all Americans is still at stake.

White River Carnival Beginning

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The White River Water Carnival begins at Batesville today and runs through Saturday.

The event, sponsored by Batesville Jaycees, includes the selection of a Miss North Arkansas and selection of a Queen White River.

Mistrial Is Declared at Warren

WARREN, Ark. (AP)—A mistrial was declared Thursday in the second-degree murder trial of James Ray Ederington, 19, after difficulty in finding unprejudiced Bradley County individuals to be jurors.

Circuit Court Judge G. B. Colvin Jr. of Dermott declared the mistrial after a motion for mistrial was made by Ederington's attorney, state Sen. John F. Gibson. The judge also granted a change of venue, which means the trial will be held in another county.

McClellan and Fulbright Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sens. John L. McClellan and J. W. Fulbright, Democrats from Arkansas, split Thursday when the Senate voted 70-30 to extend the 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge. McClellan voted for it, Fulbright against.

Plow Under Potatoes in Effort to Reverse Decline in Prices

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Farmers in some of the nation's potato-growing areas have begun plowing under part of their crop in an effort to reverse a potato price decline. An estimated 1,000 acres of potatoes were destroyed in Oregon alone.

The action Thursday in Oregon was apparently in response to a National Farmers Organization (NFO) call for a four per cent cutback. NFO chief Oren Staley was not available and spokesmen at NSO headquarters in Corning, Iowa, declined comment.

However, reports from groups starting potato destruction throughout the country were similar to the comment of Ray Westrick, NFO organizer in Pennsylvania and owner of the state's largest potato farm.

Westrick said his group ordered the potatoes plowed under after a U.S. Department of Agriculture report that about three per cent of the nation's potato crop was surplus.

A statement released by several county NFO officials in Idaho and Washington said the destruction would "save the taxpayers money and avoid having to ask for an expensive diversion program for next year."

Glen Eppich, NFO chairman for Adams County, Wash., said the price of potatoes dropped $15 a ton recently after the government announced there would be a surplus.

"It makes you cry but there's no use raising them if you can't get money for them," said Ed Petrasek of Klamath Falls County, Ore., as he watched a disc cut through a lush potato field.

Officials in the Columbia Basin of Washington estimated that 400 to 500 acres were plowed under at a cost to farmers of about $350,000.

In Idaho, the biggest potato producing state in the nation, there were reports of crop destruction in several counties.

Nell Venturacci of Ontario, Ore., regional NFO supervisor for Oregon, said salvageable potatoes would be given to welfare and charitable groups.

WR Hints He'll Go for Third Term

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, beating the bushes for support for more state taxes, hinted Thursday that he may run for a third term.

The intimation came at Rogers, at a luncheon stop prior to the governor's visit to Fayetteville.

When he ran for governor for the first time, in 1964, he believed two terms would be enough, Rockefeller said in response to a question.

"But I didn't realize I'd be the first Republican governor in 94 years," he added. "It takes a little while to get acquainted."

The matter arose again later at a news conference, where Rockefeller said, "I can't see how two two-year terms will complete the program I've run on three times."

Rockefeller lost the 1964 race, but won in 1966 and 1968.

The tours — this being the first of 14 — are designed to get Rockefeller out to the people, to talk with them about problems and opportunities, according to aides of the governor.

Rockefeller put the question this way in his speeches: What do you want?

He said the $90 million tax program he introduced in the legislature earlier this year was what he believed was needed to accelerate progress in Arkansas.

After getting little cooperation from the lawmakers, Rockefeller, late in the session, said a $60 million tax program would allow Arkansas to hold its gains and add to them, although not at a fast pace.

Interviewer Robert Shakne asked Sorensen why Kennedy crossed from his hotel in Edgartown back to Chappaquiddick to make a call to his lawyer the morning after the accident.

"Why didn't he call directly from the hotel?" Shakne asked.

"I'm told," Sorensen replied, "that the only telephone in the hotel is one of those that's out in the lobby. There's no booth. There's no privacy whatsoever. One does not normally call his lawyer from such a telephone."

He would agree with you that he should have gone and gotten help that night now that he looks back on it," Sorensen said. "Of course he should have."

Electric Use in Hope Sets New Records

Hope's Municipal Electric System was setting records all over the place during the month of July.

Records were set for the highest load ever recorded, for the greatest number of kilowatt hours used during a 24-hour period, and the greatest number of kilowatt hours used during any one month. Customers of the Utility System are due to get record bills for this period, also.

Water consumption was the highest ever recorded, but would have been much higher if the supply could have met the demand.

There were 18 days during the month when the temperature was 100 degrees or higher and it was hanging around 95-98 degrees the rest of the time. This was a near record heat wave.

The highest load established on the electric system was 14,112 K.W. For the same month last year the peak load was 11,592 K.W., and increase of 22 per cent, however, the increase in kilowatt hours used was much greater. The system used 7,123,200 kilowatts during July while the use for the same month last year was 4,998,600. This is an increase of 44 per cent.

To pull this load would have required three plants of the size Hope shut down in 1958. New air conditioning accounted for most of the increase in total load, but during the extremely hot weather all air conditioning was operating at a record rate.

Only a few overloaded spots showed up on the electric system, which has been almost completely rebuilt since 1958. The capacity of the system was not heavily taxed by the 14,000 K.W. load. The substitution serving the City has a total capacity of 30,000 K.W.

Grand Jury to Resume Monday

The grand jury committee will reconvene in the court room of the Hempstead County Court House at 9 a.m. Monday, August 4.

Anyone having information concerning unlawful or unethical behavior practiced by public officials is encouraged to appear before this committee.

The grand jury will continue its investigation of the Larry Yates Murder trial Tuesday, August 5. Some 23 persons have appeared before the grand jury and approximately 25 more are expected to be subpoenaed.

The hijacking developed over Tulsa, Okla., as the jet flew westward on Flight 79 from Pennsylvania to Los Angeles. Stewardess Deborah Sullivan was the first to come in touch with the hijacker.

"He put a razor blade to my throat and told me to go into the cockpit," the 19-year-old red-haired stewardess said in Miami.

She said the hijacker also had picked up a wine bottle and held it and the blade, still pressed to her neck, for more than an hour as the jet flew south to the Gulf of Mexico and then to Cuba.

Thursday's hijacking was the 37th time this year an aircraft has been diverted to Cuba. There have been seven unsuccessful attempts.

Workers Ruin Vacuum and Join Astronauts in Quarantine Room

By PAUL REGER

AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Two men were exposed to moon dust late Thursday night when a glove extending into a vacuum chamber broke at America's lunar quarantine station, officials said today.

The pair, Ronald Buttmann and George Williams, were forced to strip, shower and place themselves in quarantine with the three Apollo 11 astronauts.

Officials said Buttmann was working in the glove when it sprang a leak, causing a high rush of air into the vacuum chamber.

Buttmann required the help of Williams to remove his hand. Together, they got his hand out and sealed the chamber to further air leaks.

They went to shower for more than two hours while officials decided if they had possibly been contaminated.

It was decided they had and the pair were placed in quarantine with the Apollo 11 astronauts at about 3 a.m.

Dr. William Kemmerer, chief of the preventative medicine branch at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said Buttmann suffered a slight bruise on his right arm from the force of air escaping into the vacuum chamber.

Officials said it was unknown how much degradation two samples of lunar material in the vacuum chamber received.

With the addition of Buttmann and Williams, the population in the crew quarantine area increased to 19.

Earlier, officials said the spacecraft Columbia and three astronauts who flew it to the moon and back were reunited.

Columbia, the Apollo 11 command module, was moved into the crew quarantine area Thursday night and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins visited it.

Apollo 11 Commander Neil A. Armstrong was to look at the spacecraft tonight.

The crew spent Thursday giving a seminar on their mission to the Apollo 12 astronauts, who plan to go to the moon in November.

U.S. Prisoner Evades Guard, Diverts Plane

By RICH OPPEL

MIAMI (AP)—A prisoner under escort by two federal officers carried out a bizarre bid for freedom Thursday by pressing a razor blade to the throat of a teenage stewardess and hijacking a jetliner with 131 persons aboard to Cuba.

Trans World Airlines officials said they were unaware the passenger identified on their rolls as "L. Perry" was a prisoner until after he left the Boeing 727 at Havana's Jose Marti Airport.

In Pennsylvania, authorities said Lester Perry, 32, boarded an aircraft in Scranton with two federal officers who were escorting him to a California prison. They changed to TWA in Pittsburgh.

U.S. Marshal William Lavin and a prison guard, Joseph Hart were not available for comment when the plane returned to the United States.

The hijacking developed over Tulsa, Okla., as the jet flew westward on Flight 79 from Pennsylvania to Los Angeles. Stewardess Deborah Sullivan was the first to come in touch with the hijacker.

"He put a razor blade to my throat and told me to go into the cockpit," the 19-year-old red-haired stewardess said in Miami.

She said the hijacker also had picked up a wine bottle and held it and the blade, still pressed to her neck, for more than an hour as the jet flew south to the Gulf of Mexico and then to Cuba.

Fair for Saturday, Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas weather should be sunny and rain-free through Saturday, the U.S. Weather Bureau said today. Temperatures Saturday should be in the low 90s over most of the state.

Showers tapered off Thursday at mid-day in the state and a clearing trend began before sunset.

The clouds, however, restrained temperatures Thursday to generally in the 80s.

High pressure dominates most of the nation, at least the portion east of the Rockies. The high pressure area stretches from the Dakotas and upper Mississippi River Valley southward to the mid-south and the west Gulf areas.

A cold front runs from a low north of Lake Huron southwestward to just east of Chicago to Central Missouri, then it cuts westward into southern Kansas as a very weak and diffused front.

Sunday morning rain may break out in Northwest Arkansas counties, threatening to spread over the state by evening.

Lows tonight are expected to be in the 60s and low 70s. Overnight lows included 60 at Fayetteville, 63 at Fort Smith, 67 at Harrison, 68 at El Dorado, Little Rock and Pine Bluff, 69 at Jonesboro and 70 at Texarkana and Memphis.

Police Rebel and Ransack Calcutta

CALCUTTA (AP)—A threat of new mob violence hung over India's largest city today after 6,000 police, incensed by West Bengal's Communist-led government, ransacked the State Assembly chamber.

The police attack, which one assemblyman said was unparalleled in the history of the world, occurred while President Nixon was visiting New Delhi, 800 miles to the northwest.

It was rather as if the police in New York had gone on a rampage against Gov. Nelson Rockefeller while Queen Elizabeth II was paying a state visit to Washington, but there was no indication that Nixon and his party were even aware of the events in Calcutta.

Jyoti Basu, Communist deputy chief minister of West Bengal, threatened to call the teen-age city's militant students and restless unemployed youths into battle.

"Thousands of youths will come forward to deal with such unruly policemen if necessary," he told 50,000 persons at a rally called to protest President Nixon's visit to New Delhi.

Basu declared that a "deep conspiracy" was behind the invasion of the assembly Thursday by police armed with iron rods.

At least 20 legislators were injured as the police smashed chairs, tables and microphones. Speaker B.K. Banerjee and two assemblymen jumped out of a window to escape.

The police brought along the body of a policeman who they said was killed in a clash Tuesday with supporters of the state government. They charged that Basu has failed to support them in confrontations with strikers and teachers of the Communist regime.

Calcutta, a city with half as many people as New York jammed into an area one-tenth that city's, has been described by the World Health Organization as one of the most unhealthy places on earth.

A giant slum in which poverty, unemployment, disease and death are rife, Calcutta is a hotbed of dissatisfaction that resulted in the victorious sweep of the Communist-dominated United Front in the West Bengal state elections last February.

13 Counties Failing on Assessments

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Assessment Coordination Division said Thursday that 13 Arkansas counties have let their property assessments drop below the legal minimum of 18 per cent of the fair market value level.

Each of the counties was notified to raise its assessment to the legal minimum by Dec. 31 or lose a portion of their state turnback funds temporarily. If the assessments remain below the legal minimum by the following fall, the loss of those funds would be permanent.

Under the system, no county has ever lost any of its turnback money.

The counties below the legal minimum are, at 17 per cent, Boone, Calhoun, Jackson, Marion, Newton, Polk and Sevier, and, at 16 per cent, Pike, Poinsett and Scott, and at 15 per cent Clay, Little River and Madison.

West Co. to Rebuild in 3 Months

E.M. Ristinger, president of J. A. West Co. announced today that the local store which was destroyed by fire in the Village Shopping Center Monday night, will be rebuilt in the same location. The company hopes to open the new store in three months.

Mr. Ristinger also stated that the estimated store loss in the fire was $180,000. A temporary office has been opened in the building next door in the Village Shopping Center.

Signing of Surtax Due Next Week

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders, blocked in an initial effort to rush through a Senate-passed bill extending the 10 percent surtax through Dec. 31, are hoping to get the measure to the White House early next week.

All 100 members showed up Thursday as the Senate approved the six-month extension, overriding the plea of President Nixon that a full year continuance is necessary to dampen inflation.

An attempt to complete action on the bill in the House Thursday night before the surtax withholding rates expired was stymied when objections were raised, forcing Democratic leaders to put off voting until Monday.

Even though the surtax officially died June 30 and the withholding rates expired at midnight, Treasury officials were expected to urge all employers to keep taking the levy out of employee's paychecks since both houses of Congress have passed surtax extension bills.

The House voted a month ago for the full year's extension but in a different bill than the one passed by the Senate.

The Senate measure presents the issue to the House in a form which offers six months of nothing.

The reason is that the Senate added the surtax amendment as a rider on a House-passed unemployment compensation tax bill.

Senate leaders were hopeful the House simply would adopt this amendment and thus clear the bill to Nixon.

Senate voting on the extension bill came after four hours of sharp debate.

And it climaxed four weeks of intensive maneuvering and cloakroom conferences since the Democratic Policy Committee first decided it would go only for a short-term surtax extension in an effort to maintain pressure for broad tax reform.

Nixon Mends U.S. Fences in Pakistan

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer
LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — President Nixon arrived in Pakistan today and began talks with President A. M. Yahya Khan which Nixon hoped would bolster relations with the onetime close ally of the United States.

Bringing the Asian portion of their round-the-world tour to a close, Nixon and his wife arrived from India in 100-degree heat. But most of their 21-hour stay was to be spent in the spacious, air conditioned old Governor's House that the British left.

At a sweltering airport ceremony, both Nixon and Yahya referred to the shift since the days when America and Pakistan were close partners in the anti-Communist "southern tier" across Asia that John Foster Dulles put together.

With the United States bogged down in Vietnam and showing a marked antipathy toward participation in any more Asian wars, Pakistan has recently been cultivating relations with Communist China, her big northern neighbor.

Yahya recalled Nixon's visit as vice president in 1953 and said:

"That was the beginning of a new era of cooperation and mutual collaboration between our two countries. The pattern of our relations has changed somewhat since then, but there is no diminution in our mutual regard nor, I am happy to say, in your country's interest in Pakistan's well-being."

Nixon in reply referred to "some strains in our relations" over the years and said:

"What we want to do on this visit is to restore a friendship based on the mutual trust which is so essential to good relations between two countries."

Crowds along the five-mile route from the airport to the Governor's House waved flags and cheered, but the intense heat reduced the turnout. The crowd was considerably less than the throng that greeted Mrs. John F. Kennedy when she visited Lahore in 1962.

Nixon halted the motorcade once, to walk through a group of toiling, weaving, male dancers. With the dignified, swagger-sticked Yahya in tow, Nixon plunged into the waiting crowd, smiling and shaking hands.

As Nixon and Yahya began their talks, the visiting chief of state said in a statement that he looked forward to "our sharing in candor our respective assessments of our national interests and informing each other of our views."

Nixon said he wanted to reaffirm a basic feeling of friendship and respect between the United States and Pakistan that he said has survived both good times and difficult ones.

He pledged that the United States will continue to give strong encouragement to Asian development but he said, "Asian hands must shape the Asian future."

Economic aid, he said, must "encourage self-reliance, not dependence," and must be related to "the total pattern of a nation's life."

The U.S. president also took approving note of Pakistan's participation with Iran and Turkey in the Regional Cooperation for Development Organization.

Student Says He Got Ballistic Missile Parts in Open Trade

BOSTON (AP) — A college student says he has bought from private firms two-thirds of the parts to build an intercontinental ballistic missile and has access to the rest.

Joseph R. MacG. Seitz, 21, a special student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said in a copyright story in the Boston Globe today that he purchased the parts from various salvage and surplus metal dealers in Massachusetts.

The Globe said Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, provost of MIT and a former science adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, called its attention to Seitz's work.

Seitz said he found a metal salvage dealer in Boston who "will sell you an Atlas nose cone for 40 cents a pound ... He doesn't know what they are unless you bother to tell him."

A warehouse in Taunton furnished a complete first-stage assembly of the Titan II-C, three guidance platforms, six re-entry shields and four "umbilical assemblies," Seitz said.

An "umbilical assembly" is one which disconnects the missile at the moment of launching.

Seitz, of Elberon, N.J., said he collected the components out of "idle curiosity" and to show security and ordinance people that "all you have to do is go out to the surplus yards and look."

Seitz said that actually assembling an ICBM is "a 500-man-year job," but no classified knowledge is needed.

"I've got all the critical sub assemblies for an ICBM," he said. "The rest is plumbing."

Seitz said he had "avoided getting hold of things like fuel tanks and exterior structures

Convention Ends Action on Judiciary

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Constitutional Convention Thursday completed action on a proposed judicial department article.

The convention amended the unified court system proposal it approved Wednesday by vesting judicial powers in the state Supreme Court and "such other courts" as established under the proposed new constitution.

The amendment was introduced with the signatures of 53 delegates and was approved on a vote of 49-17.

The state Supreme Court still would have the authority to set rules of procedure for all courts and to create courts of appeal when its justices deemed their case load to be too great.

William Prewitt of El Dorado, a supporter of the amendment, said it simply would mean that the elected judges in lower courts would not be merely employees of the Supreme Court.

The convention also approved Thursday proposals creating general courts of justice with jurisdiction throughout each county. The delegates also voted to allow an appointed judge to seek election to the post to which he had been appointed. Running for election to a position at the end of a term of appointment is forbidden by the state's current Constitution.

In another action, the convention voted for a proposal to prohibit prosecuting attorneys from engaging in private law practice.

Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton, a delegate, pushed for an amendment to allow prosecutors to practice law privately while serving in the public position. His amendment failed 15-59.

Opponents of Harvey's amendment said a private law practice by a public prosecuting attorney appeared to be a conflict of interest.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Not long ago two bright young writers were dividing their time between two projects: a pilot show for a television series and a Movie of the Week for ABC.

What happened was, the television series went down the drain and the movie ended up in ABC's fall schedule as a Monday night series.

The show that made it is "Love, American Style" and the two writers, who also are the executive producers, are Arnold Margolin and Jim Parker.

"Some people think we're doing 'The Erotic Life of the American Housewife.' They won't let us have a casting couch," said Margolin.

Each hour-long show is divided into three separate stories about people in and out of love. They run from 7 to 25 minutes, and every story, every week, has a different cast. Among those who will be appearing are Imogene Coca, Phyllis Diller, Richard Deacon, Flip Wilson, Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, Dorothy Lamour, Robert Cummings, Bob Crane and Garry Moore.

The segments will be bridged by blackouts relating to men and women.

"This is a comedy show," said Margolin. "We try to do stories which have relevance to today. We have a story about a mother and father debating about whether to slip the pill into their daughter's orange juice. A guy who finds a girl's name and number scratched on a phone booth. Two people living together but not married because they get more Social Security that way."

"The funniest stories are the kind of things that happen to people. Everybody's got at least one or two stories that happened to them that they want to tell."

"Any everybody's got a few stories they can't tell," Parker added.

The two have been writing partner for five years. Both dress in mod clothes, and Margolin has thick, dark curly hair and long sideburns. On his face he wears a perpetual look of amusement, as though he has just recalled a favorite gag line. Parker has sandy brown hair

Churchman Beleaguered in a War

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—On either side are the guns, the fury and in the middle is the Most Rev. George W. Appleton, his duties, his problems and his compassion extending on both sides of the conflict.

"It causes awful tensions of mind and heart," he said. "It's a unique situation, and a jolly difficult one to hold in balance."

Archbishop Appleton, the forthright, white-haired Anglican primate of Jerusalem, who presides over churches both in Israel and Arab areas, said he gets "Plenty of pressure" from and a beard and wears steel-rimmed glasses.

Besides producing "Love, American Style," they are writing the screen play for "Star-Spangled Girl" and an hour mystery-comedy pilot for another television series.

The pilot they originally were working on was "Houseboat," based on the Cary Grant-Sophia Loren movie. "We were very, very happy with 'Houseboat,'" Margolin said. "We thought it would sell."

"And we thought Love wouldn't," Parker said.

Jerry Buck is substituting for vacationing Cynthia Lowry.

both sectors of his flock.

But he sees this as an opportunity, not an obstacle. "Most churches in the Middle East haven't taken enough initiative for peace," he said. "We've got to help find a way for living together."

Installed in his unusual post four months ago, the archbishop said he's not "antanybody" in the bitter, prolonged struggle. "I'm pro-Arab and I'm pro-Israel, and for the sake of both, I'm propeace."

After extensive back-and-forth visits and conversation on both sides of his ecclesiastical region, he said he sees the outline of the necessary features for a settlement, and also signs of tempering attitudes.

"The Arabs are beginning to realize that Israel is a fact, that she's there to stay," he said in an interview while on a four-day consultation here with officials of the Episcopal Church, the American wing of the worldwide Anglican Communion.

He discounted the possibility of the present sporadic clashes expanding into a full-scale war in the near future, saying: "The present shooting is not meant, on either side, to provoke war. It's a manifestation of the seemingly irresolvable frustrations and resentments, a continuing warning, one to the other, of military strength."

"It's also a kind of morale builder to show that one's own nation is capable of taking military measures. But I don't think there'll be another war in the next year or so. There may be after that, however, unless we

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The recent deaths of Judy Garland and Robert Taylor caused many reminiscing Americans to wonder if the great figures of Hollywood's Golden Era—the 1930s—were disappearing.

This is reassurance such workers: large numbers of the stars of the 1930s are still alive and well.

Indeed, some of them are still functioning at the top of their profession. Katharine Hepburn is as much in demand as she was when she won the first of her three Oscars for "Morning Glory" in 1932. Henry Fonda and James Stewart are making a Western together at Santa Fe, N.M.

Fredric March ended a so-called retirement to sign for two pictures. Edward G. Robinson makes more films than any name performer. Bob Hope is always busy. Cary Grant could work for any studio, but he seems to prefer being a business executive these days.

What about John Wayne, Anthony Quinn, William Holden, Glenn Ford? All got their starts in the 1930s, though they didn't reach 90 stardom until later.

Many of the grande dames of the Golden Era remain active in films and-or television: Bette Davis, Rosalind Russell, Joan Crawford, Myrna Loy, Olivia de Havilland, Jane Wyman, Barbara Stanwyck, Lana Turner, Ann Sothern, Helen Hayes, Mia Lupino, Merle Oberon, Lucille Ball.

These male stars of the 1930s also keep busy: David Niven, Charles Boyer, Fred MacMurray, Mickey Rooney, Pat O'Brien, Walter Pidgeon, Robert Young, Lew Ayres, Robert Cummings, Melvyn Douglas, Bing Crosby, Groucho Marx, Don Ameche.

Ginger Rogers, Betty Grable and Dorothy Lamour did their things in "Hello, Dolly!" Jean Arthur came out of retirement for a short-lived television series. Others who make occasional appearances in films or television or the theater:

Jack Oakie, Joan Blondell, Richard Arlen, Buddy Rogers, Rudy Vallee, Cesar Romero, George Raft, Ruby Kellner, Chester Morris, Allan Jones, Marie Wilson, Joel McCrea, Ray Milland, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Marlene Dietrich, Alice Faye, Eleanor Powell and Jane Withers, the lady plumber in those television commercials.

Loretta Young, Irene Dunne and Claudette Colbert have done little performing in recent years but might be lured back with the right role. Less probable is the return of another 1930s star, Greta Garbo, though producers keep trying.

James Cagney still resists the repeated urgings to give up his retirement. Norma Shearer has never returned since her last film in 1942. Child star Jackie Cooper is now a television executive, and Shirley Temple combines housewifery and politics. Freddie Bartholomew became an advertising executive.

Among the others who are retired or in other professions: William Powell, Robert Montgomery, Randolph Scott, Sonja Henie, George Brent, Deanna Durbin, Madeleine Carroll, Johnny Weismuller, Fay Wray, Luise Rainer, Gene Autry, Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, Paulette Goddard, Joe E. Brown.

And if you remember all those names, you've got to be over 40 or a student of the late, late show.

find a peaceful solution."

Archbishop Appleton, 67, a bespectacled, slightly stopped British churchman who served for 16 years in Burma, three in India and six in Australia before taking the Church of England see in Jerusalem, urged a three-point basis for Middle Eastern peace, including: Arab recognition of the state of Israel and a guarantee of the security of its borders; withdrawal of Israel from most of the territory taken in the 1967 war, and agreed steps on both sides to solve the refugee problem.

"These are the three conditions necessary for peace," he said. "Otherwise, we will go on in the present dangerous situation."

As for Jerusalem, now fully held by Israel, he said it was in a special category, distinct from other areas taken in the 1967 war, and the dispute over it could best be solved by a joint Arab-Jewish administration of a shared, undivided city.

Archbishop Appleton presides over five dioceses, each headed by a bishop, and a membership totalling about 162,000 in seven Middle Eastern countries, about 2,000 of them in Israel.

Pope Meets Chiefs in Uganda

By EDWARD MAGRI

Associated Press Writer KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Pope Paul VI alternated church business and peacemaking today as he consecrated 12 new bishops for Africa and then met with political leaders.

The consecrations, which took place at an outdoor Mass consecrated with 40 bishops, are the first that a Pope has performed outside Italy in modern times.

Pope Paul exalted the virtues of bishops—"self denial, courage, constancy, wisdom and sacrifice"—but urged the prelates to steer clear of political involvement.

"You must work in poverty and often against opposition," the Pope continued, "and your hearts should be open to the children, to youth, to the poor and all who suffer."

"You must also lend your service to help build up civil society, while remaining free from political engagements and temporal interests."

Several parts of the Mass were sung by a choir in Luganda, the language of the former kingdom of Buganda in which Kampala is located.

After the ceremony, the 71-year-old pontiff began a series of meetings with African heads of state who had come for his visit, and with delegations from warring Nigeria and Biafra.

Both the Nigerians and the Biafrans have said they are willing to sit at a negotiating table if the Pope asks them. A Vatican official said Thursday the Pope would be willing to extend his three-day visit to Africa "even by one month" if that would help to end the civil war in Nigeria. But the papal entourage did not appear optimistic. Before leaving Rome, Pope Paul said the positions of the two warring sides were still far apart.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bittel

CONFUSED OR DETERMINED?

Dear Helen: My 55-year-old wife is "confused."

When I was away on a business trip, she got so "confused," she visited a man who is in the process of getting a divorce. She maintained at first her visit was formal, but later, after months of wrangling, told me adultery was committed.

Next she became so "confused" with many highbills that she brazenly bedroom-kissed one of my co-workers at a public dance. The embrace lasted several moments.

There are times when she barely speaks to me, and other times when she leads me on, then slaps me down when I try to act like a husband.

These are only a few of her confusions. Suffice it to say she confuses other men with me—and chooses them. —ALSO CONFUSED—AND NEEDS HELP

Dear Con: I'd say your wife isn't so much confused as she is determined—to try out all the new models while there is still time. If a counselor can't help her, then a lawyer can probably help YOU. —H.

Dear Helen: Recently we went nightclubbing. We hit several places before this incident happened. The orchestra was playing rowdy-dowdy music and the customers were the same. Then a break came, and the violinist walked through the crowd directly towards me, playing a very difficult classical number.

I turned, facing him. He stood before me, playing that beautiful music. When he finished I offered an awed "Thanks!" He bowed gracefully and retreated.

Now I wonder, after that lovely romantic episode was over, should have I tipped this man? Money was the farthest thing from my mind at the time. Some things are just not for sale, like a mutual love for good music.

My friends say I'm nutty—why else would he have walked over, if not to be tipped? Somehow I had turned it into just a service, the moment would have lost its beauty. He gave me a thing I'll cherish all my life.

Am I as nutty as they say?

SPELLBOUND

Dear Spellbound: No, you're not nutty. You're a pure romantic, and the world needs more of them! I hope your violin reads this column. If he is a true musician, he'll consider it better pay than the tip that I (bring a rellist) figur he expected. —H.

Dear Helen: This to "Black and Patronized," the maid who was "pitted" by her employer's wealthy friends. She should laugh at them! And feel sorry for them. Behind their backs, of course. I suppose their precious daughters aren't even allowed to babysit!

I was given the best education money could buy, but I learned a lot more about people, children, and caring for a home by earning my spending money as a babysitter. Only the foolish patronize a maid. She's doing a worthwhile job and she should be justifiably proud. Make shows it, the condescension will stop.

My mother-in-law, now 60, told me that the best families in Europe—even in the aristocracy—sent their daughters to serve as maids abroad for a few years. It was axiomatic that no woman should ask a female employee to do anything she could not do herself. —M.J.L.

The reasons Americans get such poor service (in their homes and at hotels and restaurants) is that they don't know how to value it. When you treat a "server" with the respect due him or her, with the respect due him or her, you'll get the best service. —M.J.L.

Namath Vs. Lineups Collegians Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Namath will be in the spotlight tonight as the exhibition pro football season opens. On Saturday night it will be Vince Lombardi.

Namath, the quarterback Super Bowl hero, will lead the New York Jets against the College All-Stars in the annual game at Chicago tonight.

Lombardi will make his competitive debut as the new coach of the Washington Redskins against the Chicago Bears in one of five Saturday night exhibitions.

In the others, Baltimore is at San Diego, Buffalo is at Houston, Minnesota takes on Miami at Tampa, Fla., and Oakland is pitted against Kansas City at Birmingham, Ala.

Lombardi, the former Green Bay mentor who took over at Washington after one year as Green Bay general manager, is anxious to demonstrate he has the Redskins on the road back to their once lofty status.

The play of Baltimore against San Diego also is of interest. It will be the first game for the Colts since their upset defeat by the Jets in the Super Bowl last January. Earl Morrall is to start at quarterback for the Colts with John Unitas also slated to see action.

A record crowd of 41,137 turned out for the annual Green Bay Packers intrasquad game Thursday night. Travis Williams paced the offense to a 26-0 victory.

Williams repeatedly slashed through the line for big yardage to show he is back in his 1967 form.

O. J. Simpson, who still hasn't signed with Buffalo, was reported enroute to New York for a meeting with Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

However, Rozelle said in Chicago he had no plans to meet with the Heisman Trophy winner and Bill Marvel, public relations director for Sports Illustrated, Inc., Simpson's agents, said Simpson would be in New York Friday on "commercial business which has absolutely nothing to do with the Buffalo Bills, Pete Rozelle or a pro football contract."

Rozelle in Tribute to Namath

CHICAGO (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle cited his protagonist of just two weeks ago, Joe Namath, with being one of the major reasons tonight's College All-Star football game could draw the largest crowd in more than a decade.

"It's recognition of what Namath and his teammates have done—their tremendous Super Bowl performance," said Rozelle. "That seemed to captivate the country and this is a manifestation of that—a rub-off of a colorful and very effective team."

"I think the fact that an American Football League team is playing for the first time is an added factor and so is the team itself. While Joe is a prominent figure he himself has said on many occasions that the Jets have outstanding offensive and defensive personnel to go with him."

Rozelle's affirmation of the appeal of Namath and the Jets came just two weeks after he and the shaggy-haired quarterback sat in pro football's New York headquarters working out a solution to their six-week long dispute.

At that time, Namath agreed to sell his interest in a New York night spot as Rozelle had insisted, paying the way for his return to the Jets' camp and paving the way for tonight's large crowd.

Bauer Gives Yank Magic to Oakland

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Hank Bauer remembers the glory days of the 1950s when whatever move the New York Yankees made seemed destined for success. Bauer was a part of that Yankee dynasty and he's brought a little of the magic along with him to Oakland.

Bauer, now manager of the A's, made a simple change in the ninth inning of Thursday night's game, inserting catcher Larry Haney in the lineup, after using a pinch hitter for Phil Roof, the starting receiver. Moments later, Haney was the hero of the Athletics' 3-2 victory with a game-winning single.

The victims? The New York Yankees.

It was Haney's hit in the bottom of the ninth that scored Rick Monday with the deciding run and spoiled Mel Stottlemyre's bid to become the major league's first 16-game winner. Monday and Dick Green had singled and a wild pitch advanced the runners. Then Haney lined to left and Roy White dove for the ball but managed only to trap it as Monday trotted home.

In other American League action Thursday, Minnesota dropped Detroit 5-3, Baltimore trimmed Kansas City 3-1, Cleveland edged Chicago 3-2 in 10 innings, Washington rapped Seattle 7-6 and Boston defeated California 9-1.

In the National League, Houston blanked New York 2-0, Pittsburgh edged Los Angeles 2-1 in 15 innings, Cincinnati dropped Montreal 6-1, Chicago bombed San Francisco 12-2 and Atlanta split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning 4-2 before losing 9-0. St. Louis and San Diego had the day off.

Stottlemyre was nursing a 2-1 lead built on solo homers by Bobby Murcer in the second inning and Roy White in the seventh.

But the A's tied it in the eighth when Bob Johnson delivered a pinch single, raced to third on Jose Tartabull's single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ted Kubiak.

The victory kept the A's 3½ games back of Minnesota in the American League West. The Twins whacked Detroit and dropped the defending world champion Tigers 15 games back of Baltimore in the East Division.

Cesar Tovar and Rick Renick smashed home runs to lead the Minnesota attack and the Twins bunched five straight single for three more runs.

Dave Boswell, 12-9, held the Tigers to two hits until the eighth when Mickey Stanley's bases-loaded single produced two runs.

Juan Rios' throwing error allowed two Baltimore runs to score in the third inning and that was enough for the Orioles to beat Kansas City. Reliever Dick Hall nailed down the victory for Tom Phoebus and drove in an insurance run with a ninth inning single.

A throwing error by Ron Hansen on an attempted double play helped Cleveland beat Chicago with Chuck Hinton's single driving in the deciding run. Tony Horton had singled opening the 10th and Ken Harrelson forced him. But Harrelson reached second on Hansen's wild throw and Hinton followed with his single.

Rico Petrocelli, Mike Andrews and Joe Lahoud all tagged home runs for Boston and Ray Culp rode the heavy hitting to a five-hit victory over California.

Frank Howard ripped his 35th home run and two clutch singles, helping Washington whip Seattle.

Howard singled and scored in the first and drilled the last of five consecutive singles that produced five runs in the seventh and snapped a 1-1 tie. His ninth inning homer proved to be the winning run when Seattle rallied for three in the bottom of the ninth.

Atlanta's Errors No Bar to Win

By MIKE BRYSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
Pat Jarvis made a couple of mistakes in the ninth inning after flirting with a brilliant pitching performance, but everything turned out okay.

His Atlanta teammates made a lot of mistakes against Philadelphia a short time later—but because of Pittsburgh's Al Oliver, it didn't cause much harm to the Braves' pennant hopes.

Jarvis tamed the Phils on just one hit for 8 2-3 innings Thursday night before he was chased by a rally in Atlanta's 4-2 victory in the opener of a doubleheader.

Then, in the next game, the Phils battered Jim Britton, Claude Raymond and Gary Nieuwacker for eight runs in the sixth inning—Philadelphia's biggest one inning explosion in more than three years—en route to a 9-0 victory and a split.

But, despite the nightcap loss, the Braves were actually able to widen their lead in the National League West's torrid race to two games—thanks to Oliver.

Oliver delivered the winning run in the 15th inning with a single as the Pirates dropped Los Angeles out of second place with a 2-1 conquest.

That triumph—combined with Cincinnati's 6-1 coast past Montreal and San Francisco's 12-2 loss to the Chicago Cubs—left the runnerup spot in the West race in a jumbled mess.

Cincinnati is second with a .552 percentage, but Los Angeles is only .003 percentage points back, and fourth-plac San Francisco trails the Dodgers by only .001. All three teams are two games back of the Braves.

The New York Mets lost to Houston 2-0 in the only other National League game scheduled, and fell six games back of the Cubs in the East Division race.

In the American League, Baltimore defeated Kansas City 3-1, Minnesota checked Detroit 5-3, Cleveland nipped Chicago 3-2 in 10 innings, Oakland topped New York 3-2, Washington beat Seattle 7-6 and Boston rolled over California 9-1.

Jarvis was coasting along with his one-hit shutout with two outs and two strikes on Larry Hise when the Phils' rookie lashed his 14th homer of the season.

Richie Allen's double and a single by John Callison produced another run before Raymond came in to get the last out.

"I outguessed myself," said Jarvis, 9-7, about Hise's homer. "Tilly (catcher Bob Tillman) called for a fastball to Hise and I shook him off."

"I threw one curve ball all night and he (Hise) parked it. I got it a little too good."

Tillman backed Jarvis with three RBIs and Hank Aaron hit a solo homer, his 28th of the season.

Francisco 32; L. May, Cincinnati 29.

Stolen bases—Brock, St. Louis 36; Bonds, San Francisco 27.

Strikeouts—Gibson, St. Louis 183; Jenkins, Chicago 182.

Pitching—Rick Wise, Phils, hurlled a five-hitter in the second game, pitching Philadelphia to a 9-0 victory over Atlanta and a split of their two-night doubleheader.

BATTING—Roberto Clemente, Pirates, stroked four hits in Pittsburgh's 2-1 15-inning victory over Los Angeles.

Arts, Letters to Go in Monmouth

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Arts and Letters, who thwarted the bid of Majestic Prince to win racing's Triple Crown, is slated to make his first start since his memorable triumph on June 7 in the $100,000 Monmouth Invitational Handicap at the New Jersey track Saturday.

Paul Mellon's hardy 3-year-old Belmont Stakes winner worked out one-half mile in 48 4-5 seconds between races at Monmouth Park Thursday in preparation for the 1½ mile race in which he has been assigned top weight of 128 pounds, including jockey Braillo Baeza.

"Normally I would expect Arts and Letters to go in 46 or 47," said trainer Elliott Burch after the workout. "However, the track is apparently dead, so I guess I must be satisfied with what he did."

The return of Arts and Letters, currently regarded as the leading 3-year-old in training, highlights the national weekend program in horse racing.

Two other 100 granders, the $100,000-added Delaware Handicap for fillies and mares and the $100,000-added Benjamin F. Lindheimer Handicap at Arlington Park, are slated.

Elsewhere there is the $50,000-added Whitney Stakes at Saratoga, the $20,000 Gen. John W. A. Green Memorial Handicap at Rockingham Park and the $20,000 San Diego Handicap at Del Mar. The Kindergarten Stakes is scheduled for Liberty Bell.

Al Hattab, the second high weight at 126 pounds, looms as the main contender for Arts and Letters. Others in the field are Gleaming Light at 116, Hydrogast 115, Prime Fool 112 and Dot season and 538th of his career.

The Phils combined six hits and three Atlanta errors for their eight-run inning in the nightcap after Brave starter Britton had yielded only one hit during the first 5 1-3 innings.

Callison, Deron Johnson, Ron Stone, Don Gmoney and Terry Harmon all had run-scoring hits in the big frame.

Oliver came up with his winning hit for the Pirates after Matty Alou opened the 15th with a single and advanced on Ron Davis' bunt.

"We don't get paid for extra innings," cracked Oliver about the clincher.

The Dodgers—held to two hits by Luke Walker and Joe Gibbon during the first nine innings—broke a scoreless tie on Bill Sudakis' leadoff homer in the 10th.

But, Pittsburgh came right back in the bottom of the inning when Jose Martinez' smacked a pinch RBI single.

Johnny Bench cracked a three-run homer and Woody Woodward had a two-run double in powering Cincinnati past Montreal. Garry Arrigo was the winner on a six-hit.

Jose Laboy's 15th homer produced the Expos' lone run.

Ernie Banks and Randy Hundley each slamed two-run homers and Billy Williams contributed a solo shot in helping the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins win his 14th game.

Tom Griffin and Fred Gladning stopped New York on four hits and Jim Wynn hit his 24th homer as the Astros completed a sweep of a three-game series with the Mets.

Tom Seaver, trying to become the majors' first 16-game winner this season, was tagged with the loss.

Ed's Bluesky 111.

The Delaware Handicap at 1¼ miles looms as a wide open affair with the withdrawal of Mellon's Amerigo Lady.

With Amerigo Lady out, Walter M. Jefford Jr.'s Singing Rain, with 120 pounds, appears the favorite. Other expected starters include Watch Fob at 116, Pattee Canyon 115, Obeah 112, Double Ripple 111, Swiss Cheese 111 and Just Having Fun 107.

Clement L. Hirsch's figonero at 122 heads the probabilities for the Lindheimer Handicap at 13-16 mile over the grass course. The chief contention is expected to come from Lostalo and Out the Window, both listed to carry 116 pounds.

Quicken Tree, the highweight at 127 pounds, tops the likely field for the 1-16 mile of the San Diego Handicap.

Coup landing, despite top weight of 128 pounds, is expected to be the heavy favorite for the six-furlong Green Handicap.

Australian Bruce Devlin and unheralded Bert Greene were one shot back at 67.

Another stroke back, at 68, were Bruce Crampton, another Australian; South African Harold Henning, Paul Harney, Terry Dill, Fred Marti and Bob Lunn.

Long-hitting Tom Weiskopf was in a group at 69 which included Frank Beard, Tony Jacklin, Jim Colbert, R. H. Sikes, Bobby Nichols and Marty Fleckman.

Fourteen players came in with 70s, including Ray Floyd, Gary Player, Tommy Aaron and Tom Shaw.

Pott and Archer posted 73s. Bolt, legendary for his explosive temper as much as for his picture-perfect swing, said he gets just as mad as ever although he can't remember when he last wrapped a club around a tree.

"I feel great. I'm taking care of myself," said Bolt. "I've been using a 10-pound weight belt and three pound anklets for practice. When you take those off you can run around the course."

Although he hasn't won an official tournament since 1961, Bolt has collected nearly $11,000 this year. His earnings for his 23-year career total $292,003.1st on the all-time list. His best finish this year was a tie for sixth at Doral.

Minor Action on Vietnam War Front

By RICHARD H. PYLE
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The allied commands today reported scattered small clashes in various parts of Vietnam and a total of 128 enemy troops killed as the battlefield lull continued in its seventh week.

The heaviest action was reported by South Vietnamese forces who claimed 77 Viet Cong killed in two days of fighting 110 miles southwest of Saigon, near the provincial capital of Rach Gia.

Other government troops reported 20 of the enemy killed in a fight in the Mekong Delta province of Bac Lieu and 13 in Long An province 20 miles southwest of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said its forces killed 18 enemy, including six killed in a U.S. Marine ambush of a patrol near the demilitarized zone; seven killed by a helicopter gunship after they fired on the helicopter 30 miles northwest of Saigon, and five killed by 9th Infantry Division troops about 30 miles southwest of Saigon.

Six Marines were wounded in the ambush.

The allied commands also reported 61 enemy shelling attacks between 8 a.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday but said only two of them caused damage or casualties. Two wounded Americans were among the casualties.

The U.S. Command also revised its published figures on the number of U.S. helicopters lost in the war, raising the total to 2,893. It said 1,254 of these were shot down.

A U.S. military source said the American command may soon abandon the practice of giving code names to its field operations in the northernmost 1st Corps tactical zone. The informant said this would avoid giving a "misleading impression" that U.S. forces are continuing massive sweeps in the five northern provinces.

Field operations now are carried on by smaller units sent out to detect enemy concentrations. In recent weeks, U.S. strategy has shifted from "maximum pressure" on the enemy to "protective reaction," a shift designed chiefly to hold down American casualties, U.S. sources have said.

The policy is one of responding in kind to the enemy on the battlefield, meaning that American forces are sent out in large units only when good intelligence information indicates enemy forces of sufficient size to warrant such operations.

Meanwhile, as 2,750 American troops began embarking today for Okinawa and the United States, the U.S. Command announced that another 950 will leave Saturday, including one of the last two battalions in the country equipped with Hawk anti-aircraft missiles.

The departing Hawk unit is the 750-man 6th Battalion, 56th Air Defense Artillery. It and two others battalions were assigned to defend the air bases and Da Nang and Chu Lai, but no enemy planes have ever attacked South Vietnam.

The departure this weekend will bring to 11,100 the total number of troops withdrawn in accordance with President Nixon's order for 25,000 to pull out by Aug. 31.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said in Bangkok that Thailand would like to withdraw its 12,500-man combat division from Vietnam because his government has "so many burdens to carry in our own country." He did not mention a date.

Thanat also said he did not think any cutback in the 45,000 U.S. servicemen stationed in Thailand would adversely affect his country's security, he said. American forces are in Thailand mainly to support the war in Vietnam and Laos.

U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam also will not affect Thai security, Thanat said, adding that his country never planned to ask the United States for troops to fight communism and "we don't intend to."

In Saigon, the U.S. Command said five more North Vietnamese fishermen have been rescued by a U.S. warship in international waters.

The five were picked up

Wednesday by the destroyer Meredith from three rafts adrift about 70 miles north of Dong Hoi off the North Vietnamese coast. All were reported in good condition.

The announcement said the United States, with the help of the Red Cross would try to return the fishermen to their homes "if repatriation is desirable."

On Tuesday, five other North Vietnamese fishermen were taken from a sinking sampan by the U.S. Navy destroyer Renshaw about 70 miles northeast of the demilitarized zone. They are in Da Nang awaiting return home.

Game Work Good Deal Like Farm

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Andrew Hulse, newly appointed director of the state Game and Fish Commission, says operation of the commission is similar to that of a farm.

"We've got to look at this (wildlife) as a crop that must be harvested to the benefit of human beings," Hulse says. "That's our assignment."

Hulse, 45, who succeeds Hugh Hackler, said he does not plan any immediate changes in the commission program.

"The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission has had a real good program," says Hulse. "We're not able to excel in all fields, but we're known all over the country as an organization that does the practical-type thing."

"We are not known as a research organization," he says. "We know we can't have game if we don't have land for them, and we have one of the most outstanding land purchase programs in the country."

"We're mostly concerned with acquiring the physical capability to have fishing and hunting," Hulse says. "We'll utilize our money that way and then we'll refine our techniques later on. We haven't been real high on long-haired research."

Hulse says attitudes have changed since he grew up at Mt. Ida. "The way I was raised, if you fished and hunted, a lot of people thought you were lazy," says Hulse. "Now, the tourist industry in Arkansas is tied in real closely with what the Game and Fish Commission does."

"This is a real competitive business we're in — trying to get people to come to Arkansas," he says. "It's not just Old Joe that likes to fish and hunt anymore. It's part of our way of life and economic well-being. It's close to a $200 million a year business and not just something you consider lightly."

Hulse also says operating the commission is far different than managing some other department of state government.

"In a lot of departments there is a law which says you use this formula to apportion this money," he said. "We're operating where it takes a lot of decision-making."

"We can't pass a law and require animals to operate a certain way," he said. "This is a very complicated deal. Our laws are made to regulate the harvest and give more people an opportunity to participate in the harvest."

"So many of these fish and wildlife problems don't lend themselves to precise determinations like chemical problems and engineering problems," he says. "In the final analysis, a human being has to make a decision and there are so many variables that you get into in what humans want."

Like, the question of free-running dogs.

The commission approved the regulation which prohibited dogs from running in the woods from April through July, but the regulation is being challenged in the state Supreme Court.

"There probably has been a lot of misunderstanding on this," Hulse says. "We've got to try to communicate a little better with each other. We've got to sort of impasse. Everybody is kind of waiting on the Supreme Court."

"This is going to be one of the big problems and I know it, but all I can do is make sure the commission has all the evidence," Hulse said. "Whatever their decision, the department will strive to carry it out."

He says the commission's primary problem is acquiring and keeping qualified personnel. "This is due partly to low pay and partly to the general lack of the powers to be to understand that we really need these people," he says.

"If I can keep rolling what we've got rolling and out our personnel problems and sell our programs to the people, then I will think I've done a pretty good job," Hulse says.

Hulse began working for the commission even before he got out of the University of Arkansas. He worked as a student assistant in 1950-51 on some research work the commission had given the university.

He received a Master of Arts in Zoology and became a junior biologist with the commission Jan. 1, 1952. He then advanced to project leader, chief fishery biologist, chief of the fisheries division and became assistant director last year.

Missile Guidance Job Let

LITTLE FALLS, N. J. (AP) — A Little Falls company has been awarded a $4 million contract to develop a guidance system for multiple warheads delivered by a single missile, a newspaper reported today.

In a copyrighted story, the Morning Call of Paterson said the contract was announced Thursday.

The paper said Singer General Precision Co. has been awarded the contract to develop a guidance system for missiles carrying the controversial Multiple-Targeted Independent Reentry Vehicles (MIRV).

The program under which Singer General won the contract is called Advanced Ballistic Reentry Systems (ABRES). It seeks to develop multiple warheads capable of evasive action in the face of any attempts to destroy them in flight.

MIRV is in its initial testing stages, but the Air Force is working toward warheads which could evade sophisticated anti-ballistic missile systems similar to the proposed American Safeguard now being debated in the Senate.

Mars: Man's Next And Only Goal—Now

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It's not mere coincidence that most space authorities are now promoting Mars as the next new world for mankind to visit.

According to the consensus, Mars may in fact be the only new world (beside the moon) that mankind can visit.

The reason, simplified, is this: Everything else out there—and there's a lot out there—is, based on present thinking, either too hostile or too far away for immediate manned-flight planners to consider.

A chief proponent of this belief is Dr. Robert Jastrow, director of the Goddard Institute for Space Studies. He admits man's ultimate space exploration may indeed be boundless, but, as

6.6% Hike in Air Fare Is Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Air Lines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board today for permission to raise fares by about 6.6 per cent.

The increase would bring short- and medium-haul fares more closely in line with the cost of such runs, the company said.

In New York, a spokesman for Trans World Airlines said TWA would be filing for a fare hike within a few days. Other major airlines were reported readying applications for increases.

United told the CAB: "A continued decline of earnings in relation to investment makes an increase in revenues for the entire air transport industry necessary."

United proposed that the fare for medium-length flights go up about 10 per cent and that of long-haul, coast-to-coast trips about 3 to 5 per cent. The spread between coach and first-class would be 20 per cent, it said.

The airline said common fares between the Midwest and the Pacific Coast would be retained and special promotional fares would continue, with discounts applied to the new fares.

The TWA spokesman in New York declined to say how great an increase that airline would seek.

Cambodia is about the size of the state of Washington.

things currently stand, he feels the manned-landing possibilities are quite limited.

He explains it this way: "Of the nine planets that are in our galaxy, only Mars is fit for any kind of a manned landing. Mercury is too close to the sun. The surface of Venus is hot enough to melt lead. Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune—all 100 to 300 times the mass of earth—have gravitational forces that would crush any landing astronaut. The final planet, Pluto, is frozen, barren and four billion miles away."

"As for the other bodies in this galaxy, there are any number we can think of. This galaxy has about 100,000 million stars bound together, including the sun. But the sun is naturally too hot for man (about 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit on the surface). And the next nearest star is Alpha Centauri, which is some 25 trillion miles away. It would take 100,000 years, at rocket speeds of five miles per second, to reach it."

"And this barrier of distance is even more evident when we consider intergalaxy travel. Again, there are any number of other galaxies—we know of at least 10,000 million others, each with 100,000 million stars. But they are just too far away. The nearest neighboring galaxy, Andromeda, is two million light years away (a light year is six trillion miles)—and that's thousands of travel years from our earth," Jastrow said.

These observations, Dr. Jastrow adds quickly, are rooted to contemporary knowledge only. The barriers may not be everlasting. And Jastrow believes man will eventually overcome many of these shackling problems.

In fact, the scientist adds, man must overcome these problems.

"According to calculations," he says, "the earth probably will be able to support life for five billion more years. After that, the sun will have become a red giant, swollen into a vast, distended sphere of gas 180 times its present radius—and heat the surface of the earth to 4,000 degrees."

So, the physicist explains, this planet will eventually have to be abandoned. And some other place found to support continuation of earth life.

It's certainly nothing to lose any sleep over right now, Jastrow admits: It's only a problem for those living 200 million generations hence.

For the present generation, of course, the problem is considerably less massive. Just to get to Mars. And Dr. Jastrow has no doubts it will be done. Probably, as many space authorities agree, in the 1980s.

The Mars journey, as Jastrow sees it, will take about five months. He says it might be accomplished faster, but any increase in speed would necessitate an unwise and unprofitable decrease in payload.

Jastrow says nuclear rockets, presently under development, will probably be used on the Mars ship. And he thinks the cost for the trip—at present currency value—will be anywhere from $50 billion to $100 billion.

But the Mars expedition, despite the enormous cost and unimaginable difficulties, is, as Dr. Jastrow sees it, worth any human effort.

Says he: "There are certain critical moments in history that are necessary for human advancement. One was fish first coming out of water onto land. Another was man's going to the moon. Still another may be the first communication with life on a world other than our own."

"From many standpoints of reasoning, it is probable that life does exist on other worlds. For instance: If it were true that worlds resembling the earth were very rare, even one in one million—that would still mean we would have 100,000 other earthlike worlds in our galaxy alone."

"I don't think a trip to Mars is going to find life as we know it. The planet doesn't seem to have enough water to support intelligent life. But I'm sure we'll find some life there—primitive plants at least. And that may be a start from which ultimate intellectual contact might evolve."

Apollo 11 Medal

Presidential Art Medals is commemorating man's first lunar landing with a new high relief art medal. This memento has not yet been advertised and we are the first to announce it.

Mr. Harper, vice president of Presidential Art Medals, told me by phone that, although the medal has never been discussed openly, orders have been coming in from all over the world in anticipation of its possible striking.

Ralph Menconi, the "Sculptor of Presidents," designed and executed the models for this medal, the second he has produced honoring an event in the space program. In 1964, Menconi sculptured the model for Project Mercury, now part of the Project Mercury Monument at Cape Kennedy.

The obverse of this medal shows the portraits of Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins centered by an NASA patch. The reverse depicts Armstrong and Aldrin probing the surface of the moon with the national colors implanted in the surface near the module and the earth in the background as it appears at high noon with only the top half showing illumination.

Although this photo was made from the original 30-inch model, the 2 1/2-inch finished piece reflects each tiny detail. Under a magnifying glass, the features of the module are recognizable.

Harper said delivery would start by mid-September and orders will be processed as received until all of the serially numbered pure silver medals are sold.

Silver pieces are priced at $35 each and antiqued bronze pieces at $5 each. Interested readers may address inquiries to Presidential Art Medals, Inc., Englewood, Ohio 43322.

Eisenhower Silver Dollar
Massachusetts' Rep. Silvio O. Conte is becoming exercised again, this time in a bout with Congress over the proposed Eisenhower silver dollar.

According to the congressman there isn't enough silver left in the Treasury pot to pay the help and demands that the silver dollar proposal introduced by Colorado Sen. Peter Dominick be swept to one side.

I would like to remind Conte that the Coinage Act of 1965 and the Commission on the Coinage (of which he has been a member for years) provided for the minting of a silver dollar after June, 1970. There is sufficient silver for this particular issue, according to the General Services Administration, and I suggest that readers interested in seeing an Eisenhower dollar struck in 90 per cent silver write their congressmen to that effect.

West Shuts Eyes To New Attack By Oswald & James Jacoby

2. Notice

West was one of those players who don't like to open a four-card suit headed by the jack, so he decided not to open a heart against the no-trump game. He also decided against a spade or diamond lead and put the seven of clubs on the table.

SPACE-AGE CONTRAST is evident when viewing a corner of the Mutual Benefit Life Building, left, near Market Street and the Embarcadero with nearby aged and mellowed structures that are linked with San Francisco's past.

SAN FRANCISCO'S traditional skyline is in for major changes. In this twilight shot, some of the first can be seen.

San Francisco

If you left your heart in San Francisco, nestled in nostalgia along the city's famed waterfront, look again---you might think it's been transplanted. The City of the Golden Gate is in the midst of a building boom that is placing modern structures next to turn-of-the-century architecture. San Franciscans, however, are not going to lose their heritage. They are preserving fine old examples of Victorian houses, churches and other buildings and new constructions are designed to blend with vintage surroundings.

PART OF NEW YORK? No, it's the sort of thing they're constructing in heretofore old-fashioned San Francisco. The only apparent opening in the city's new Insurance Center Building is a tiny smoke spout on the roof. Actually, the structure has many windows, but they're all on the other side. This building is one of dozens along San Francisco's startlingly changed waterfront.

APARTMENTS, town houses and parks, with built-in supermarkets, boutiques and theaters, are part of the new scene down by San Francisco's waterfront. Elevated walkways enable pedestrians to move from residential to commercial areas

TRADITIONAL COLUMNS look harmonious next to the fluted or scored facade of a new building in the financial section, a few blocks from the waterfront. Because architects have designed new buildings with the adjacent old ones in mind, the two look compatible.
